Result

The first production version of the corporate portal with basic features was implemented in as little as three months after the start of the work. Thus, the customer had a chance to start using its key features almost at once.

The company's units from various cities and towns got a handy set of tools which could be used to significantly accelerate data flows, upload files to a central storage and collaborate on corporate projects.

The final version of the portal could also be used to plan vacation schedules, book meeting rooms, submit tickets to IT support and automate the issue of duty passes and certificates. All this made company employees more informed, improved their engagement and thus reduced costs for the customer.
